

Wednesday

Dear D

Time flies - we are already halfway through the week. The process you are involved in is a mysterious one. Why, for example is S. 's' German stronger than her English? Are there commonsense explanations for this? Did she spend more time in Germany than in English-speaking countries? Or does the explanation lie elsewhere? Is she more attracted to both the language and the culture?

How do you feel about German culture? Do you often go to Germany? If so, do you find being there easy? How do you get on with the Italian lady in your team?

Warmly yours

