Dear Sir

I have noticed or, at least, I think I have noticed, that you take real pleasure in tasting and eating and digesting new words and expressions. I have always approached language the same way as you do, so this makes you a delight to teach.

You mentioned that T.A and NLP training are both part of your Bank's training programme. Who is offered this kind of work? How deep does this sort of psychological stuff go? How NLP-proficient do your managers become? How far have you yourself probed into N.L.P.? What are your feelings about it? How far is your own belief system congruent with the NLP one?
