

Dear J [REDACTED]

I could sense your feelings whirling last week but you did not speak directly about this to me so there is some guessing and groping in the dark.

Maybe you did express things out in the open during the Friday pm session.

The very last thing we did on Friday interested me very much, when Ch [REDACTED] ( whom you fleetingly want to call C [REDACTED] / K [REDACTED] ? ) led the storywork about the naked lady with the matchstick. There was lots of interesting stuff going on there and the ways you two were relating was kind of interesting.

I wonder how they manage in Brussels when voluble, powerful people from 16 countries come together to make major decisions. Language must only be a minor part of the problem.

Yours,

Mario.
