

At the New School
Cambridge I took an elementary class and offered them reading comprehension classes from real life stories told by group members.

15 Steps

1. Student X at morning break time spent 20 mins telling me, privately, a real life story 2. I wrote the story in language a tiny bit above the lang of the group.
3. 15 mins before lessons next morning I sat down with narrator and made sure she understood her/my text
4. The first lesson started with her giving out her story and me leaving the room for 15 mins as she ran the group with them asking ~~more~~ her questions about the story
