Dear C

Happy New Year and let me wish you a good return to your groups, uninterrupted by the time you spent in the Canterbury bowl.

I have strong positive memories of you a various moments over the month together for example:

- "But this is too personal" - as you come out of an exercise around verbs that happen in the passive, mostly, positive, because you voiced what others felt, probably.

~~By~~

- Your alive awareness of UK school culture that I noticed in the "posh" school in Faversham

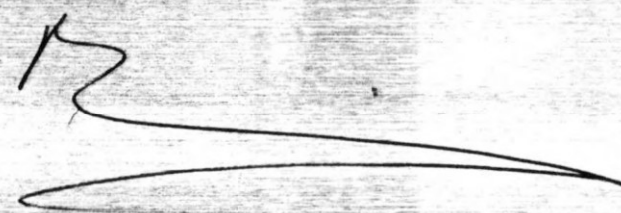

- Your positive reaction to a morning spent looking at the class system (our last Friday).

Yet I got the feeling that the course, ^{overall} was not what you wanted, needed, liked.

Could you spend 15 minutes telling me
the sort of course content that would have made the time in Canterbury more useful.

A course a diet of (a) pasta and (b) rice will not have helped!

(A trainee ~~is~~ ^I have disappointed is a real learning opportunity for me).
